Dear Mr. Olsson:

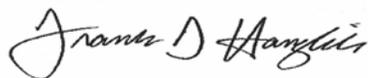

As you know, the Wi-Fi Alliance has a task group that has been working on a document to define the market requirements for public access Wi-Fi connectivity – with the goal of accelerating this market by standardizing and reducing the costs of deploying Wi-Fi infrastructure for hotspot access. The Public Access task group completed its 1.0 draft of this market requirements document (MRD) and is seeking comment on it.

As a strategic organization that we seek to maintain a current liaison relationship with, the Wi-Fi Alliance formally requests your review and comments on this document. The first step in the process is to initiate a formal liaison. This can be accomplished by confirming that you would like to provide input to the confidential document. Upon initiation of an official liaison relationship a confidential copy of the MRD will be provided to you for comment.

We are hopeful that we can promptly initiate an official liaison and be able to provide comments by January 31, 2004. If your organization cannot support that timeframe and you wish to respond, please communicate a more workable date. Be assured that your input is important to the success of this effort and we will work with you to accommodate your resource availability.

We look forward to hearing from you promptly and stand ready to work together to accelerate the public access market.

Sincerely,
